Welcome TO THE MARKETING YOUR LISTING PLAYBOOK

Marketing is simply helping the right people discover, understand, and want to buy a product.

Successful businesses market their products and services. Real estate agents market properties for sale and market their services. This playbook will teach you how to market your listings.

The challenge is that while most businesses market the same product over and over – like Yeti Outdoors markets the same 45" cooler repeatedly – you market a product that is unique every time because every seller has different goals and every home is unique.

Whether the seller's goal is maximum price, a quick sale, a specific timeline, or simply a smooth closing, great marketing helps make those outcomes possible.

WELL-MARKETED LISTINGS CREATE 5 THINGS:

1. More awareness.
2. More interest.
3. More showings.
4. More feedback.
5. More opportunities for the seller to achieve their goals.

THIS IS WHY MARKETING MATTERS.

At its core, every listing agent is making three marketing promises to the seller:

01 Create new conversations, new leads, and new listing appointments with buyers and sellers.

02 Strengthen your brand.

03 Produce reviews, case studies, and content.

THIS PLAYBOOK WILL SHOW YOU HOW TO MOVE FROM

I put your home on the MLS and wait. → I have a proven launch plan that creates attention, builds trust, generates demand, and helps you achieve your goals.

1 PREPARE THE MARKETING MATERIALS

CONGRATULATIONS! You've had a fantastic listing consultation appointment with the seller(s) and you've signed the listing agreement!

After you've decluttered, finished repairs, and staged the home, the house is ready to be marketed. We know we're speeding through the step of preparing the home for marketing, but you shouldn't!

GREAT MARKETING

shows the home at its best – online and in person.

THINK OF IT THIS WAY...

When you're looking for products or services on Amazon, do you lean towards expensive products with no details, presented with bad pictures? No way! Most consumers lean towards the products with pictures prepared and presented in a professional way, with lots of details about the product features, dimensions, and use cases, and with a price that seems to fit the quality of the information provided.

THAT'S GREAT MARKETING!

Once the property looks its best it's time to start getting the marketing materials together.

Each property will need different types of marketing pieces, so you might not create every piece listed below. But all great marketing materials begin with great photos.

KWRI makes no warranties, either express or implied, with regard to the information and programs presented in these materials. KWRI will not accept liability for any loss or damage of any kind that you incur as a result of the use of any content provided by KWRI.

PROPERTY PHOTOS AND VIDEOS

1  2D Photos

1. Amazing photos are the most important piece of your entire marketing plan, professional photography will feed everything you use to market your listing, from printed flyers to open house invitations to social media posts.
2. While AI does a good job turning iPhone photos into professional-looking ones, it's still not a substitute for professional photographers who will physically get into the space and have an eye for proper angles.

2  Twilight Photos

1. Twilight or sunset photos are an easy way to increase the look of a home. Usually the same type of photographer who does your 2D photos can do your twilight ones.

3  Aerial Photos and Video

1. If you have a property with a great view, an above-average lot size, or something else that's best viewed from above, aerial photography and videography is a fun way to elevate your listing marketing while providing a lot of extra value to the buyer.
2. Aerial photography and videography usually requires a special license in most states, so you may have to find a different vendor to complete aerial photography than your 2D photos.
3. Once you have aerial photos or video, use a photo editor like Canva or Preview to add lot lines, point out landmarks, or name skyscrapers in photos and video. Pro tip: Ask your aerial photographer/videographer if he/she can add these for you for a small fee!

4  Lifestyle & Neighborhood Photos

1. On certain listings, the landmarks, schools, restaurants, and businesses within a couple miles of the property create huge value. Use professional photos of the front of these businesses in the listing, or create a map with location icons to show distance from the listing.
2. If you don't hire a photographer to take photos of these businesses, be sure you have permission from the photographer and/or the businesses where you sourced the photo before using it.

5  Property Videos

1. Property videos can be a great upgrade for listings where 2D photography just doesn't capture the essence of the listing. Think: listings with above average finishes, complicated floor plans, or even just big floor plans!
2. If you have a luxury listing, a property video is a must. Don't skip it! In fact, hop on the newest trend and be the host of your property video by walking your videographer through the home as if you're on HGTV (channel your inner Jason Abrams when he was an HGTV star!). Then, upload the video to YouTube with the property address as the video title to give your content some search engine optimization juice.

PHYSICAL/DIGITAL MARKETING MATERIALS

Not everything in the list below will apply to every listing. You will have to make a decision on the marketing strategy based on the marketing budget and the type of listing you're bringing to market. For example, luxury agents tell us that they create, send, and advertise more marketing materials and events than they do for average-priced listings.

If this list seems like a lot, don't worry. Once you have templates set up for each, creating unique materials for each listing is as easy as opening up the template, dropping in new photos, editing the description, and then publishing or printing!

Pro Tip For many of these materials, KW agents can quickly find templates to customize in Canva*! If you don't like the KW/Canva brand templates, simply use the Canva template* search to find more ideas. All of the examples in this playbook were made in Canva!

*Templates available through Canva may need to be modified to comply with state and local laws, MLS rules and regulations, and your Market Center's policies. Contact your broker to ensure your compliance.

1 Listing Flyer

1. Although you want the listing flyer to be informative, you mostly want it to be visually pleasing. This is where your professional photography really shines! Make sure the flyer is at least 50% visuals. Remember, a picture is worth 1,000 words.
2. To really make use of your flyer, make it two-sided (or two pages PDF). If you only want to print one-sided flyers (or one page PDF), be sure you include a QR code on the front or a link to more information.
    1. The front side of the listing flyer is about setting the scene. Create a compelling property description that includes the most important statistics about the home, like number of bedrooms, bathrooms, sqft, price, and neighborhood.
    2. The back side of the flyer is about everything else. Use easily skimmable text sections and lists to provide quick highlights you didn't cover on the front of the flyer, like upgrades, replacements, special outdoor features, unique floor plan details, and more.

2 Floor Plan (2D or 3D)

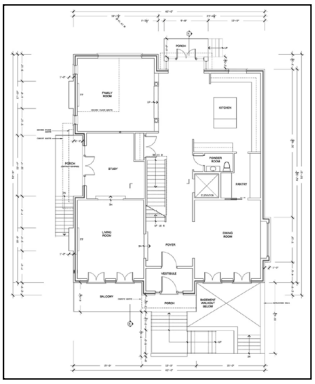

1. Floor plans are often the second most requested online marketing material for buyers and their agents. You can find, create, or purchase a 2D/3D floor plans:

1. Find it: If the home has been extensively remodeled or built in the last 5 years, you may be able to find a floor plan in your county's permit search.

2. Create it yourself: Many MLS subscriptions include a 2D floor plan creation app. These usually require you to walk around the house with your phone from wall to wall. See the "Get Started" section at the end of this playbook for more tech ideas.

3. Pay for it: Many professional real estate photography services include a 2D and/or a 3D floor plan. Typically, 3D walkthrough floor plans are only purchasable by a third party vendor since it requires special cameras and equipment.

2. It's valuable to have measurements when you can get them, but it's more important that all the rooms are clearly labeled and that the scale is accurate.

3 Neighborhood Guide

1. Neighborhood guides are 1-5 page guides on the neighborhood the property is located in. The greatest thing about this marketing material is, you can use it more than once! When you build a neighborhood guide, you can use it for every listing you have in that neighborhood for years to come – you only have to go in and update it as needed.

2. This is most likely a digital-only marketing tool, but it could be a great print out in a home binder or during an open house.

3. On your website, neighborhood guides also function as search engine food and lead generation funnels!

4. Neighborhood or area guide templates are searchable under "booklets" or "presentations" in Canva.

INCLUDE HIGHLIGHTS LIKE:

- Nearby restaurants and coffee shops.
- Shopping and entertainment.
- Community events or neighborhood highlights.
- Parks, trails, landmarks, and recreation.
- Commute times.
- Public and private schools.

Pro Tip Many title companies create neighborhood guides. Ask your preferred title company if they have some you can use for your listings as MLS attachments or in home binders/open houses.

Neighborhood Guide Examples

4 Open House Invitations (Broker/Public) and Post Cards

1. Your open house invitations and post cards can be any size (post cards, standard, legal, square, etc.), one or two sided, and should include:
   1. Date, time, and location.
   2. One-to-two compelling photos only. One great photo and one clear message will outperform a crowded design every time.
   3. Your contact information.
   4. A QR code to learn more, MOFIR, and/or RSVP.
2. If you opt for a darker background, we recommend professional printing on a heavier-weight paper to preserve quality.

Remember, use at least 50% VISUALS!

5 Home Binder

1. A home binder is a physical one-to-two inch, three-ring binder that shows off everything great about the house. Even when you put all the information online, some buyers don't read the materials until they know they're interested. A home binder puts the information conveniently at their finger tips while they're touring.
2. It should include the property flyer, neighborhood guides or information, seller's big improvement/ repair receipts, comps, buyer tips, preferred vendor marketing, and whatever else you want the buyer to know about your listing.
3. Place the home binder somewhere prominent in the home for showings and open houses, like on the kitchen island or an entry sideboard.

DIGITAL ONLY MARKETING MATERIALS

These marketing materials will only live online. Again, not all of them will apply to every listing! You will have to decide what fits with your marketing strategy based on the marketing budget and the type of listing you're bringing to market.

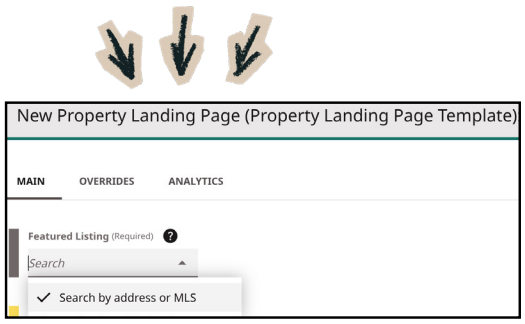

1 Property Webpage(s)

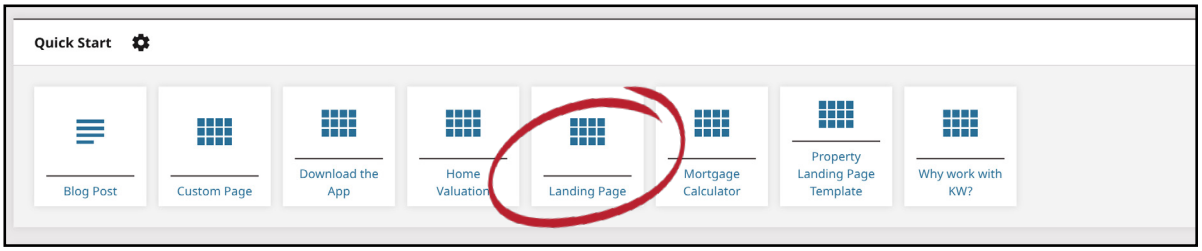

1. While photographers and videographers often provide you with listing websites, creating your own listing website gives you complete control and ownership of the property questions, design, and lead capture. Plus, fresh web pages under your owned platforms will add to your SEO/GEO juice! If you do choose to use a photographer's provided website, be sure all the contact form information will go straight to you!
2. Direct QR codes, social media links, advertisements, etc. back to the listing website.

©2026 Keller Williams Realty, LLC

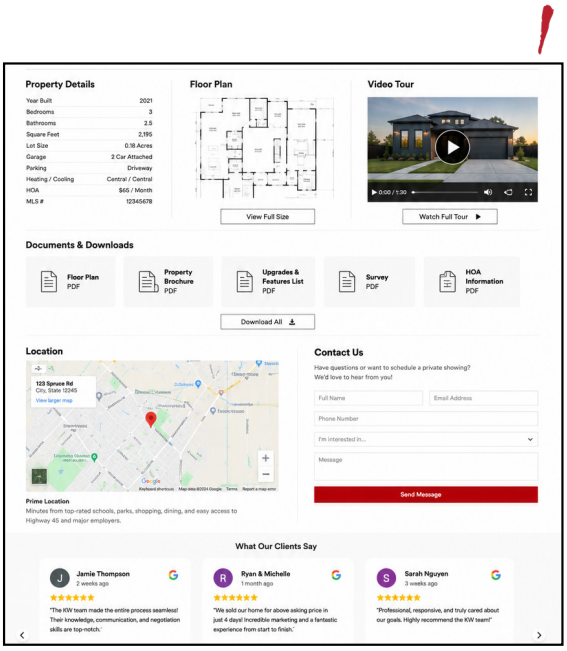

3. Property landing pages in Command are super easy to build! When your listing is active on the MLS:
    1. Log into Command, open Websites, and then go into Expert Mode.
    2. Choose the Property Landing Page Template from the Quick Start menu.
    3. Type in the MLS number, title, and rearrange the sections in one screen. When it's ready, press Publish!

4. On your listing landing page, you want to put everything you've prepared for the property here (or what's allowed by your seller and local laws). Here are some details you should include:
    1. Home address.
    2. Home details like bedrooms, bathrooms, sqft, parking spaces, etc.
    3. High quality photography.
    4. Supporting marketing materials like floor plans, videos, supporting documents, and more.
    5. Description of the property. AI especially likes it when you get creative with your webpage content by including bullets, lists, and FAQs in addition to a long-form description.
    6. A map of the property's location. This works great as a Google maps embed!
    7. Your contact information and a form to contact you and/or tour the home.
    8. Reviews and case studies of your services. This works great as an embed from the review site you use!

2 Email/Newsletter Announcement

1. Email is one of the fastest ways to spread the word. Good listings often sell through good relationships.
2. If you're not inserting the listing within a group of listings (like in a market update, weekly newsletter, or monthly email), make sure the "just listed" email is heavily visual to avoid unsubscribes and fatiguing your subscribers/sphere.

Pro Tips

On these Just Listed announcements, get creative with the photos! Use the opportunity to get really close up and personal with details of the home that make it extraordinary.

3 Social Media Teaser Posts & Stories

1. Instead of posting every photo on day one (when allowed by your MLS), slowly introduce the home over several days. Highlight your favorite features, behind-the-scenes moments, neighborhood amenities, or details buyers might otherwise miss. Give people a reason to come back for the next post.
2. Ideas include:
   1. Favorite room in the home.
   2. Beautiful design details.
   3. Before and after staging.
   4. Backyard or outdoor living.
   5. Neighborhood highlights.
   6. Countdown to launch.
   7. Open house reminders.

4 Behind-the-Scenes Content

1. As soon as you have a listing agreement, you should start collecting behind-the-scenes (BTS) content. Even if your local laws keep you from publishing the content until the listing is live, you'll be thankful you recorded the process so you can use it in advertisements, digital marketing, print marketing, and social media later.

2. You can even create a highlight collection of BTS content! Here are some pre-list multimedia content ideas:

1. STAGING SETUP PHOTOS AND VIDEO.

2. VENDOR WALKTHROUGH CLIPS.

3. PAINT SELECTIONS.

4. PHOTOGRAPHER ARRIVAL, EDITING, ETC.

5. THE BEST NATURAL LIGHT MOMENTS IN VIDEO.

6. SHORT CLIPS OF THE SELLER DESCRIBING THEIR FAVORITE FEATURES.

7. NEIGHBORHOOD VIDEO, PHOTOS, AND BUSINESS HIGHLIGHTS.

8. NEARBY RESTAURANTS, PARKS, SCHOOLS, OR TRAILS.

5 Social Media Advertisements

1. META Ads allow you to put your listing in front of thousands of potential buyers long before they search your name or visit your website.
2. All advertisements should be highly visual and eye catching, with a great CTA, MOFIR, and clear next step.
3. "Boosting" a regular post is likely the most an agent will need to do. Start with $20/day and work up from there.
4. When creating an advertisement, you'll need a website to direct traffic (see #1 in the next section) and a thoughtful audience selection. A smaller audience with the right buyers almost always performs better than a larger audience with the wrong buyers:
    1. Keep your audience focused.
    2. Target buyers by location or similar neighborhoods instead of trying to reach everyone.
    3. Be sure to comply with Fair Housing laws in your ad targeting.
    4. Don't forget to set a daily budget and an expiration date. Typically, you want to change the ad every 7 days.
5. Plan to create multiple versions of your ad using different photos, headlines, or videos. Sometimes one small change can dramatically improve results.
6. Check your ad campaign every few days and continue investing in the ads generating the most clicks, saves, shares, and inquiries.
7. Educate yourself before starting. Each channel (META, LinkedIn, X, TikTok, etc.) has a lot of support tools and YouTube channels online to help get you started!

Pro Tips

START SMALL
Begin with $20/day and adjust based on results.

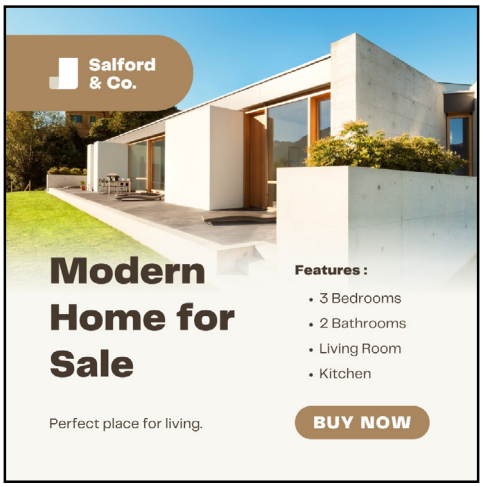

KNOW YOUR AUDIENCE
A smaller, targeted audience with the right buyers outperforms a large, general audience.

STAY COMPLIANT
Always follow Fair Housing laws in your ad targeting.

SET A PLAN
Set a daily budget and an expiration date. Change your ad every 7 days to keep it fresh.

TEST & IMPROVE
Test different photos, headlines, and videos to see what performs best.

1 DIVORCE REAL ESTATE

Bridget Potterton's divorce real estate model teaches that agents must understand the intersection of family law and real estate, protect confidentiality, build relationships with attorneys, and serve clients with exceptional care.

The Intersection of Real Estate and Divorce

From Bridget Potterton

Bridget Potterton started her career in real estate with no background in the industry and quickly went on to start her own brokerage. After a tough transaction, a client she thought she would never hear from again began sending her referrals… who all happened to be people going through a divorce. She realized she could take these clients and become an expert in the divorce arena. Here's how she did it:

1. Get Educated:

1. Start by educating yourself in both real estate and family law.
2. Obtain designations or certifications relevant to divorce real estate, such as becoming a Certified Divorce Real Estate Expert (CDRE).
3. Bridge the gap between real estate and family law by understanding how they intersect.

2. Plan Relationship Building:

1. Develop a strategic plan for building relationships with family law attorneys who are key players in divorce real estate transactions.
2. Offer value to attorneys by providing educational opportunities, such as courses or seminars, specifically tailored to their needs.
3. Establish yourself as a trusted resource for attorneys, demonstrating your expertise and willingness to assist with real estate-related matters in divorce cases.

3. Build Relationships:

1. Network with family law professionals through events, seminars, and networking groups.
2. Introduce yourself effectively by highlighting your expertise as a Certified Divorce Real Estate Expert and your focus on assisting clients in divorce-related real estate transactions.
3. Engage in one-on-one conversations with attorneys to build rapport and trust, emphasizing your ability to handle complex divorce real estate transactions with professionalism and sensitivity.

4. Provide Exceptional Service:

1. Prioritize client confidentiality and fair housing practices by refraining from disclosing divorce-related information to buyers or other agents.
2. Understand the unique needs and challenges of clients going through divorce, and provide tailored solutions and support throughout the real estate transaction process.
3. Elevate professionalism within the industry by continuously improving your knowledge and skills in divorce real estate transactions and advocating for ethical practices.

By following these steps, you can effectively navigate ANY niche market to propel your business forward.

2 SENIOR REAL ESTATE

Dan Ihara built a niche serving seniors and their families by becoming an expert on local retirement communities, care homes, downsizing, probate, and estate planning, then hosting educational Senior Relocation Seminars.

Serve the Fastest-Growing Real Estate Demographic

From Dan Ihara

Dan Ihara is the founder of The Ihara Team at Keller Williams® Honolulu, specializing in senior relocation, legacy planning, and real estate wealth strategies (including 1031 exchanges, trust sales, and probate). With 20 years of experience and more than $1 billion in closed transactions, his suite of services guides older adults and their families through downsizing, moving, and estate planning with compassion.

Step 1: Learn Everything You Can About Senior Housing in Your Market

- Search the internet to collect and create a list of senior retirement communities and care homes in your market.
- Call the locations on your list and make appointments to tour the communities. During the tours, take notes:
  - How much does it cost?
  - What will life look like for a resident (meals, activities, events, etc.)?
- Identify which communities on your list will let you host a senior relocation seminar on their campus.

Step 2: Create a Senior Relocation Seminar

- Zoom is an OK option, but Dan recommends in-person events—they're more effective in building trust and setting appointments.
- Create an agenda:
  1. Ask Questions: Is your home too big now that the kids are gone? Do you have a bedroom downstairs? Do you have to walk upstairs often? Are you tired of cooking and cleaning? Is your home too much work to maintain? If you could move somewhere else, where would it be?
  2. Explain Two Types of People: Proactive and Reactive
  3. Show Options:
     1. Age in place with an in-home care budget.
     2. Move into a family member's home.
     3. Downsize to a smaller home.
     4. Move to a retirement community.
     5. Move to a care home.
  4. Schedule individual appointments. Be sure to ask who else should be invited (or not invited!).

Step 3: Send an email to your database and invite them to your senior relocation seminar.

- Dan reminds us that everyone has parents or knows someone in the retirement phase!

Step 4: Sign a Contract at the Appointment

- Prepare for the appointment by pulling the tax records, creating a CMA, and printing important documents.
- During the appointment, present a hard-copy calendar and write out the client's desired timeline. Indicate vendor needs and key events.
- Don't forget to ask about investment properties and be prepared to talk about capital gains tax.

Step 4: Add to CRM

- Set up a special touch plan for senior relocation clients. Dan's touch plans include:
  - How-to videos that explain each step of the sale process and are emailed to clients as they move through each phase.
  - Weekly emails about wealth tips, current listings, client reviews, and/or client success stories.

TCPA Reminder: Remember to comply with the TCPA and any other federal, state or local laws, including B2B calls and texts. Never call or text a number on any Do Not Call list, and do not use an autodialer or artificial voice or prerecorded messages without proper consent. Contact your attorney to ensure your compliance.

HOW AI CAN HELP YOU PREPARE THE MARKETING MATERIALS

1. Turn your property notes into the skimmable back-of-flyer highlights: upgrades, replacements, outdoor features, and unique floor plan details.
2. Build a reusable neighborhood guide — restaurants, parks, shopping, commute times, and community events.
3. Draft the Just Listed email or newsletter announcement built around your best photos.
4. Draft social teaser posts and Story ideas.
5. Write hooks and captions for your behind-the-scenes clips and organize them into a posting plan.
6. Draft an outline and talking points for hosting your own property video, plus an SEO and GEO YouTube title and description.
7. Write open house invitation and postcard wording with date, time, location, and RSVP call-to-action.
8. Generate META ad variations each with a clear CTA and next step.
9. Create positioning angles and description language for specialty listings (luxury, land, senior, and more).

WHAT AI SHOULDN'T DO:

1. Replace professional photography or invent features the home doesn't have.
2. Write descriptions or ad targeting that risk fair housing violations.
3. Fabricate neighborhood facts, school details, or measurements — verify before you publish.

See the AI prompt library at the end of this Playbook for more detail.

2 CREATE URGENCY WITH PRE-MARKET MARKETING

Pre-market marketing is the runway to the property's big reveal. This could be Coming Soon, Flex, etc. depending on your MLS, state, and local guidelines. The goal is to build awareness, test response, notify likely buyers, prepare brokers, and give the seller confidence that the launch is a systemized countdown.

Pre-market doesn't mean hiding the listing! Remember to follow any local or state requirements about pre-MLS marketing.

83%

More than four in five (83%) prospective sellers say they are interested in a Coming Soon approach to listing their home.
(Redfin)

85%

85% of soon-to-be sellers are more likely to hire an agent who can pre-market their home to the broadest online audience.
(Zillow)

89%

89% of Americans say real-time buyer demand signals would be valuable before selling their home.

STEP 1 TEST LISTING DETAILS WITH ZILLOW PREVIEW℠

Zillow Preview℠ is an MLS-compliant, pre-marketing listing program. On Zillow Preview℠, you have access to a set of tools that can build stronger marketing plans for your sellers, combining greater early visibility, flexible pre-market strategy, and real engagement insights from the millions of buyers who start their search on Zillow.

Zillow gets 235 MILLION average monthly unique users on their website.

THINK OF ZILLOW PREVIEW℠ LIKE A MOVIE TRAILER BEFORE OPENING WEEKEND.

The main goal isn't to sell the home during the preview period. The goals are:

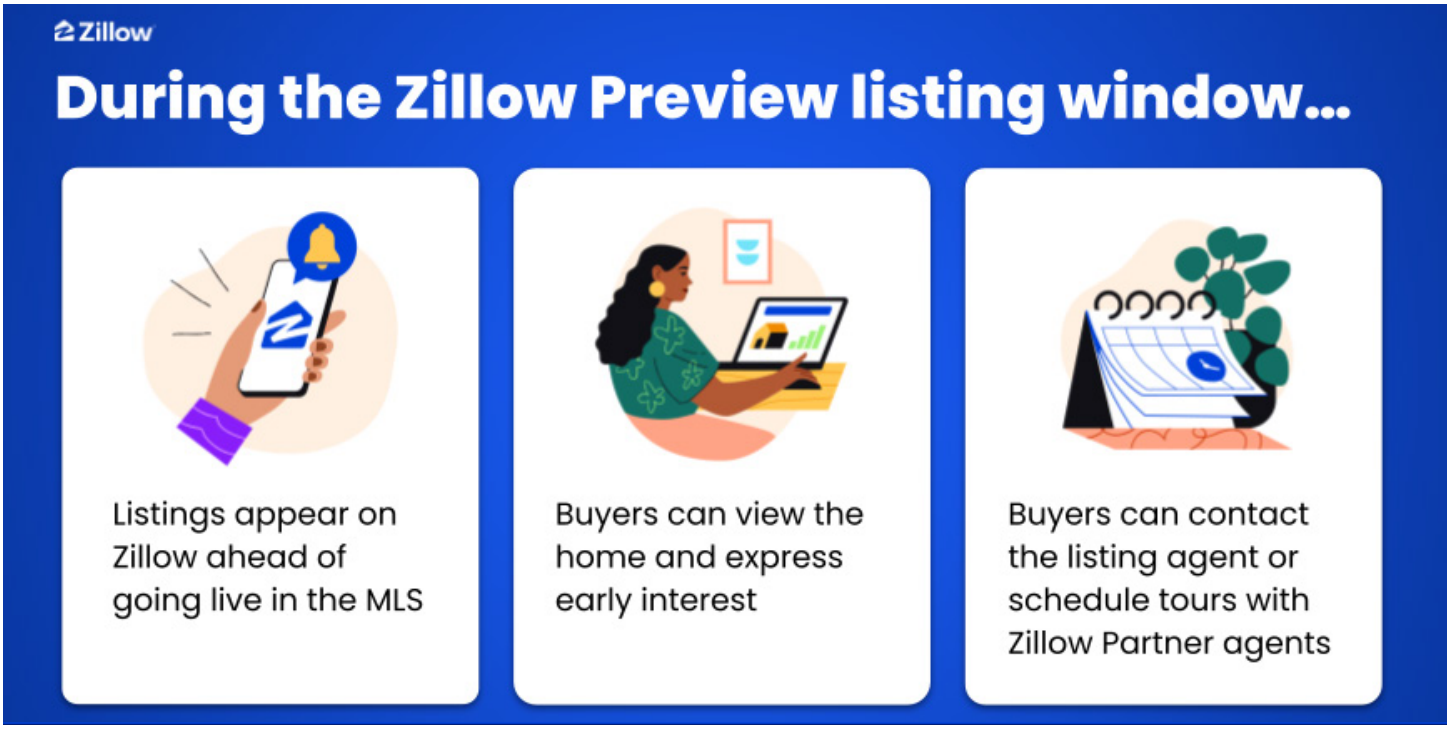

1. To build anticipation and awareness.
2. Attract the right audience.
3. Gather information that helps the listing launch stronger when it officially goes live.

KWRI makes no warranties, either express or implied, with regard to the information and programs presented in these materials. KWRI will not accept liability for any loss or damage of any kind that you incur as a result of the use of any content provided by KWRI.

Benefits of pre-marketing with Zillow Preview℠ include:

1. Reaching buyers earlier in their search process.
2. Building awareness before MLS launch.
3. Generating views, saves, shares, and buyer inquiries before day one.
4. Testing pricing and positioning based on real buyer engagement.
5. Creating a pipeline of interested buyers who can schedule tours once the listing becomes active.
6. Giving sellers more visibility into buyer interest before launch.
7. Creating a stronger launch day because awareness already exists.

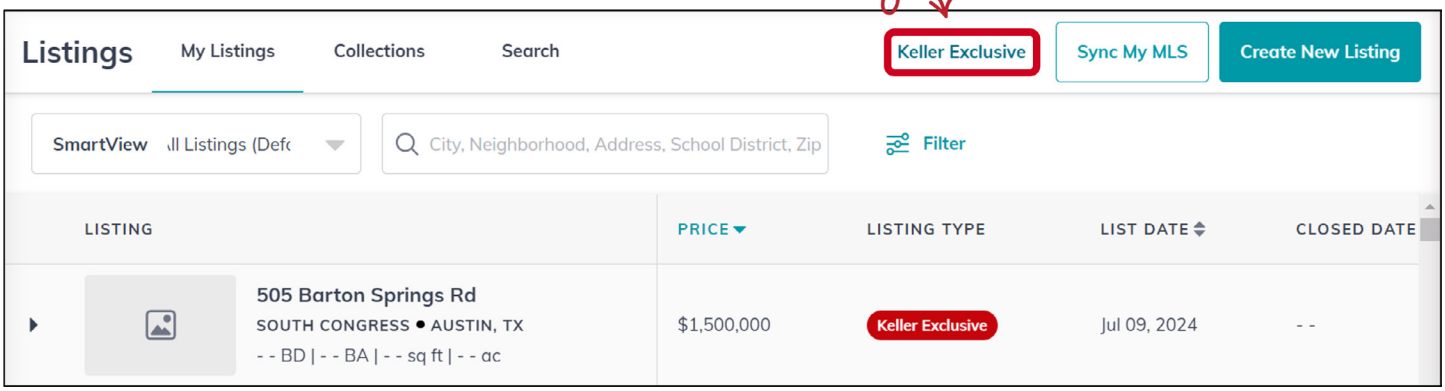

Read more about Zillow Preview℠ in the Zillow Preview℠ FAQ at the end of this Playbook.

STEP 2 KW RESERVE LISTINGS & INTERNAL OFFICE LISTINGS

1. If your market center is opted in, you can post listings internally on the Keller Exclusive Listings Program. Keller Exclusive listings can be shared with all KW-affiliated agents in the U.S. and Canada, as well as KW Worldwide agents, depending on the sharing controls the agent sets. If your market center has opted out of the program, you can still create internal listings but they won't be shared these outside of the market center.
    1. If your MC is registered:
        1. Log into Command.
        2. Click the Listings icon in the left sidebar (in Command, not CommandMC).
        3. At the top of the page, click Keller Exclusive.

2. Ask your team leader or operating principal where internal office listings are posted. Some market centers do this in Facebook Groups, boards, etc.

STEP 3 LOCAL ONLINE PORTALS

Most cities have local online portals for pre-market listings that agents outside of KW use to share opportunities. Ask agents in your network, your leaders, and your brokerage where pre-market listings can be submitted so other brokerages can see your pre-marketing too.

STEP 4 SOI PRE-MARKET TOUCH

When it's allowed in your market, your sphere shouldn't find out about new listings when strangers do. Send a warm, useful notice ideally through marketing channels you're routinely using, like a newsletter. If you want to send an email just for the listing, follow the tips in Model Step 1.2. Prepare Physical/Digital Marketing Materials.

STEP 5

SOCIAL MEDIA PRE-MARKET MARKETING

When you're allowed in your market, pre-marketing listings on social media generates excitement for open houses and showing appointments.

REMEMBER

1 Buyers are not only evaluating the property, they're also evaluating the lifestyle the property would give them. Collect content by highlighting places nearby like:

- Restaurants
- Coffee Shops
- Parks
- Schools
- Trails
- Shopping
- Commute Routes
- Local Attractions

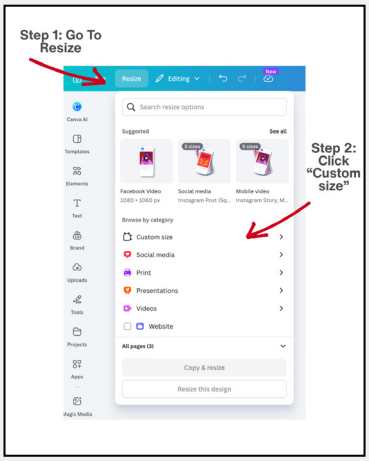

2 Always include MOFIR or calls-to-action. Auto-responders to your MOFIRs are easy to set up in tools like ManyChat or MetaAI. Here are some examples of great calls to action:

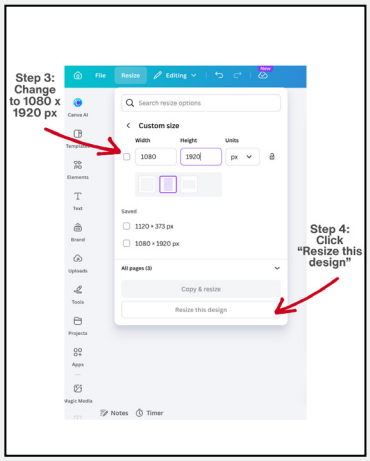

1. Comment DETAILS for more information.
2. Comment OPEN for open house information.
3. Comment NEIGHBORHOOD to receive the neighborhood guide.
4. Send me a DM with questions.
5. Save this listing for later.
6. Share this with someone loking in [area].

3 A great way to organize your listing's reels, stories, and carousels is to create a common cover image for the listing, making your content easier to scan. Here's how to create a cover image in Canva and then apply to a reel on Instagram:

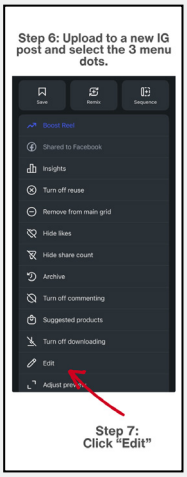

HOW TO CREATE COVER PHOTOS IN CANVA

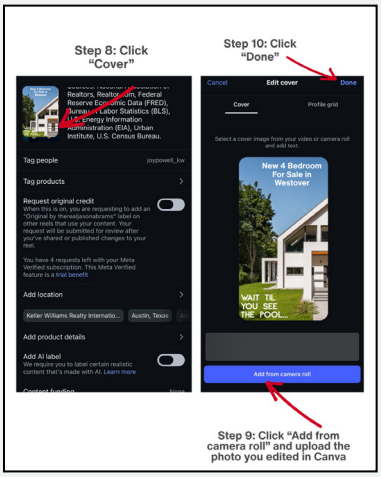

1. Select a photo from your camera roll or take a screenshot from your video to use as the cover image.
2. Open Canva and create a design using Instagram Cover (1080 x 1920 px).
3. Add a short headline that clearly communicates the content of the video. Keep text easy to scan and avoid covering important parts of the image.
4. Choose 1 to 2 brand fonts and use them consistently across all cover photos. Consistent branding makes your profile look more professional and easier to navigate.
5. Save your design as a template in Canva by selecting Share → Template Link or by duplicating an existing cover and updating the text for future posts.
6. Before publishing, make sure the text is centered within Instagram's safe zone so it remains visible when displayed on your profile grid.

STEP 6 BROKER OPEN AND TOURS

Broker opens and broker tours are like dress rehearsals before opening night. They might feel old-school, but there's a reason they've lasted so long — they work.

Before the listing goes fully live, a broker open gets you tons of feedback and data from real estate agents who walk through the house, talk about price, spot objections, and build excitement on their own marketing channels.

BROKER OPENS AND TOURS GIVE YOU A COMPETITIVE ADVANTAGE
Gather valuable feedback, create excitement, and build momentum before your listing hits the market.

USE BROKER OPENS AND BROKER TOURS TO:

1. Gather honest price feedback before launch.
2. Identify buyer objections early.
3. Learn which features agents think buyers will care about most.
4. Match the home with buyers already in agents' pipelines.
5. Create early showing momentum.
6. Get agents emotionally invested in the property.
7. Build seller confidence by showing demand before launch.
8. Strengthen relationships with agents who may ultimately bring the buyer.

1 THE 13-STEP MREA LISTING MODEL

Review this 13-step checklist from the Rookie Real Estate Agent before you go live!

A Thirteen-Step Marketing Plan for Listings

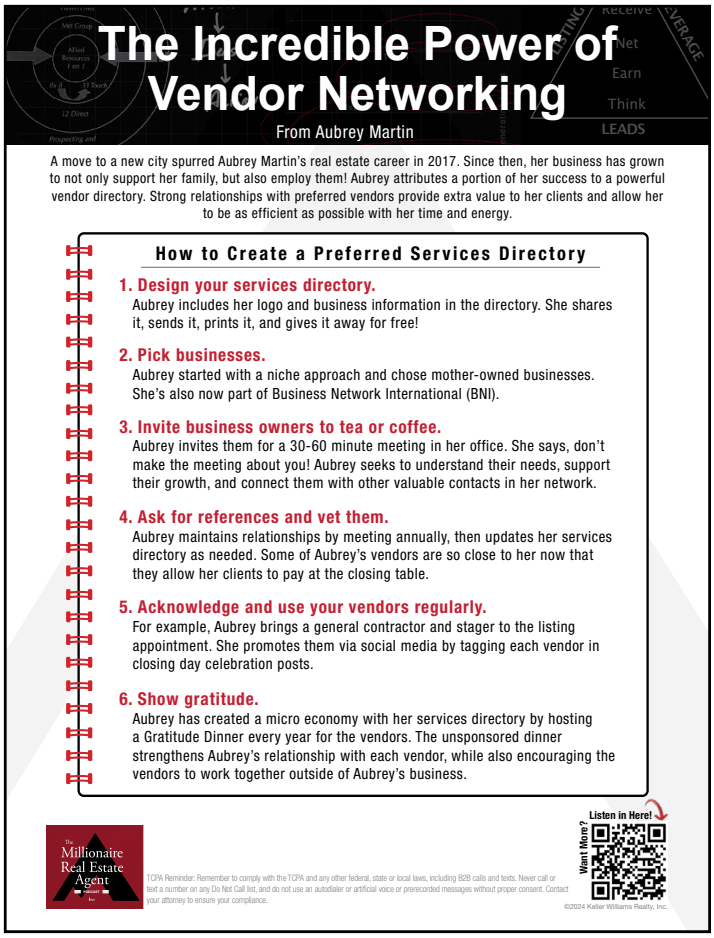

This Thirteen-Step Marketing Plan is designed for maximum exposure of a house in the shortest time.

1. Price the house competitively.
2. Advise sellers on how to attract buyers by showing the house in the best possible light.
3. Place "For Sale" signage with riders easily visible to drive-by buyers.
4. Hire a professional photographer.
5. Optimize the online presence by posting the property on local and global MLS systems, and on social media, with plenty of photographs and a description of the property.
6. Market on multiple websites, including your own site, your local office site, and national brokerage site, to attract both local and out-of-town buyers.
7. Create flyers for viewers of the property.
8. Door knock and distribute "just listed" flyers to neighbors, encouraging them to tell family and friends about the house.
9. Target marketing to active real estate agents who specialize in selling houses in the neighborhood.
10. Include the property in company and MLS tours, allowing other agents to see it for themselves.
11. Market and host an open house to promote the property to prospective buyers.
12. Target active buyers and investors in your database who are looking for homes in the price range and area.
13. Provide updates detailing marketing efforts, including comments from prospective buyers and agents who have visited the house.

HOW AI CAN HELP YOU CREATE URGENCY WITH PRE-MARKET MARKETING

1. Turn your Zillow Workspace metrics into a data-based seller update before go-live.
2. Write your SOI pre-market notice for a newsletter or a dedicated listing email.
3. Write MOFIR calls-to-action and the matching auto-responder messages for DETAILS, OPEN, and NEIGHBORHOOD triggers (ManyChat or Meta AI).
4. Draft a broker open invitation and the feedback questions you want agents to answer.

WHAT AI SHOULDN'T DO:

1. Bypass or ignore local, state, or MLS rules about pre-MLS and Coming Soon marketing.
2. Overstate the property or introduce fair housing violations in descriptions or teasers.
3. Fabricate buyer demand, engagement numbers, or Zillow analytics in seller updates.

See the AI prompt library at the end of this Playbook for more detail.

3 MARKET THE PROPERTY

Remember your three marketing promises to your sellers:

1. I'll make your home look its best in all my advertising.
2. I'll expose it to as many qualified buyers as possible.
3. I'll create a plan and adjust it as the market responds.

The home looks great, you've got marketing materials at the ready (and maybe even used some of them), and now you're hyper focused on promises two and three.

In NAR's 2025 Profile of Home Buyers and Sellers, 46% of buyers said their first step was looking for properties online. While physical marketing is still valuable in a local setting, you can't miss touching every potential buyer digitally.

STEP 1 LAUNCH EVERYWHERE SIMULTANEOUSLY

Your objective in the first 14 days after pre-marketing is to market aggressively to as many people in the world as possible. You want to publish it, at minimum to:

1. MLS
2. Your Broker's Website
3. Your Personal Website
4. Consumer Portals (like Nextdoor and Reddit)
5. Your Social Media Platforms
6. Your Social Communities (like LinkedIn or Facebook groups)
7. Email Your Database or Include in a Newsletter

STEP 2

SOCIAL MEDIA MARKETING

For every property-focused post, create one neighborhood-focused post. Buyers may fall in love with the house, but they often choose the location first.

1. Learn the Different Post Types on Social Media

1 STORIES

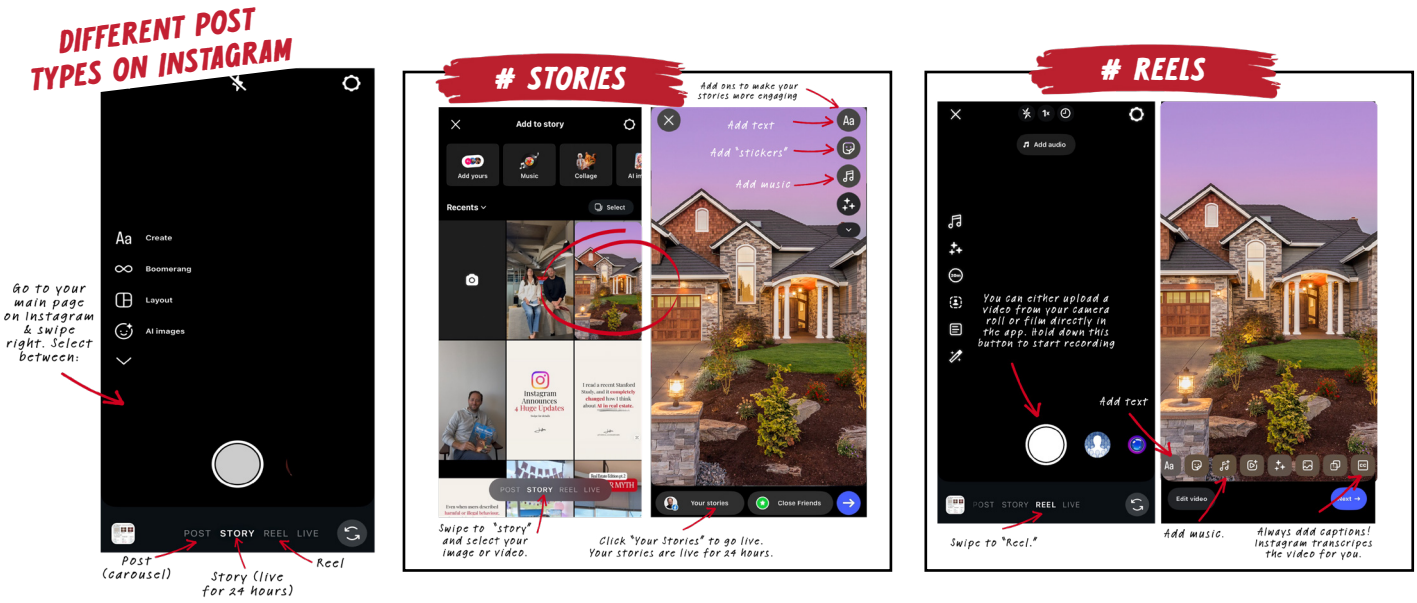

Create conversations and deepen relationships with the people who already follow you. "Stories" are one of the most underutilized marketing tools available to real estate agents. Stories are only live for 24 hours, so they don't interrupt your timeline of higher-value items. Use stories to share open house reminders, buyer FAQs, behind-the-scenes moments, and timely updates throughout the listing process.

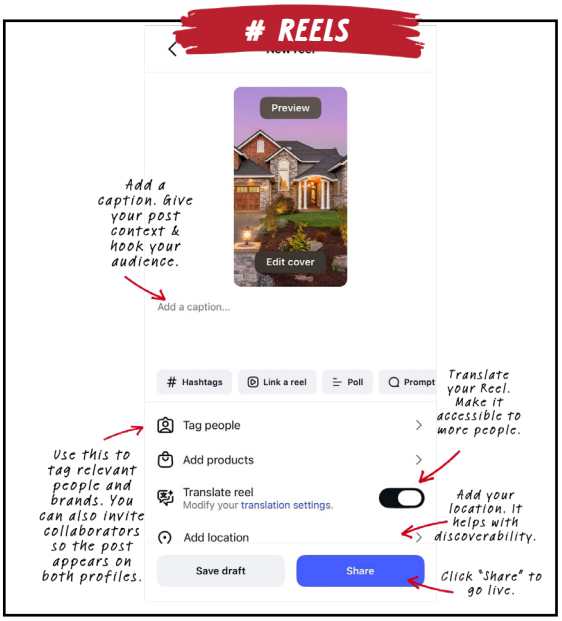

2 REELS/SHORTS

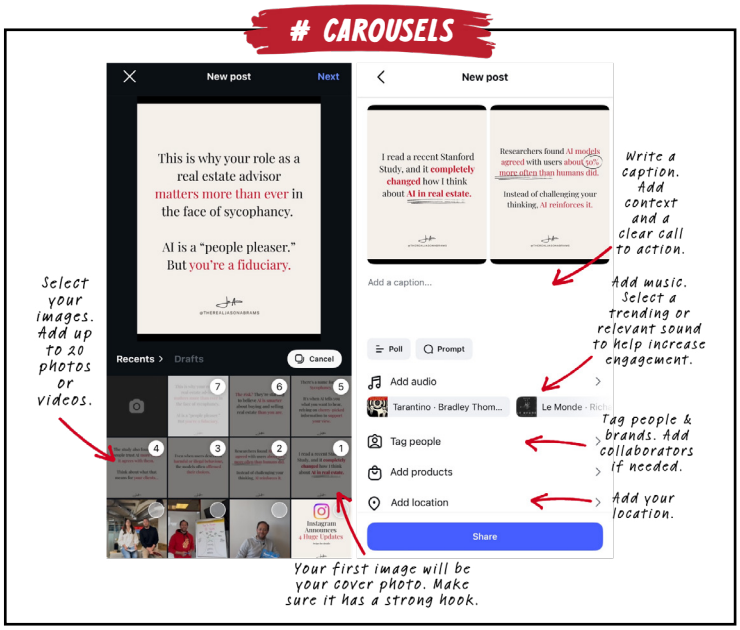

Help new audiences discover you and your listings and they're visible on your feed forever (or until you delete them). Use reels and shorts for more evergreen content like neighborhood highlights, problem/solution posts, and client stories.

3 CAROUSELS

Visible on your feed forever (or until you delete them). Use carousel posts for information that is educational (especially number or graphic heavy), quotes, and information someone might want to save and reference later.

KWRI makes no warranties, either express or implied, with regard to the information and programs presented in these materials. KWRI will not accept liability for any loss or damage of any kind that you incur as a result of the use of any content provided by KWRI.

©2026 Keller Williams Realty, LLC

2. Use four categories of posts to market your new listing:

1 PROPERTY CONTENT

"What makes this home unique?"

Examples:

- Design details
- Backyard
- Kitchen
- Upgrades

2 LIFESTYLE CONTENT

"What makes this location desirable?"

Examples:

- Restaurants
- Coffee shops
- Parks
- Schools
- Trails

3 EDUCATIONAL CONTENT

"What should buyers know about the neighborhood, price point, floor plan, or market?"

Examples:

- Pricing
- Floor plan
- Neighborhood
- Market trends

4 INVITATION CONTENT

"How can buyers experience the property in person?"

Examples:

- Open house
- Broker Tour
- Private showing
- Schedule a visit

Pro Tip

If you're using AI to turn feedback into content, remember to keep the voice in line with your voice. If multiple agents ask AI the same question, then AI will create the same content for each agent answering it. Edit AI's responses just like you edit your listing presentation for each house. Make it sound like you!

3. Review Top-Performing Content and Repeat

Double down on the formats, topics, and hooks that generated the most saves, shares, comments, or inquiries. Use fresh open house pictures, videos, and tour feedback to create new content:

1. "Three things buyers noticed at the open house."
2. "The feature people keep asking about."
3. "What this price gets you in [neighborhood]."
4. "Behind the scenes of prepping this home."
5. "What surprised me about this listing."
6. "Questions buyers asked during the open house."
7. "What buyers almost miss about this home."

4. Experiment with Trial Reels

If you're hesitating about social media posts, it's probably because you're overthinking content, worrying about low views, or feeling like every post has to be perfect.

1. Trial Reels allow you to share a reel with non-followers before publishing it to your actual followers, giving you the freedom to experiment, learn what resonates, and build confidence without feeling like every post is being evaluated by friends, family, past clients, or your sphere.

DON'T OVERTHINK IT.
PUBLISH. LEARN. REPEAT.

CREATE
Try a new idea or format.

PUBLISH
Share your trial reel.

MEASURE
See what resonates.

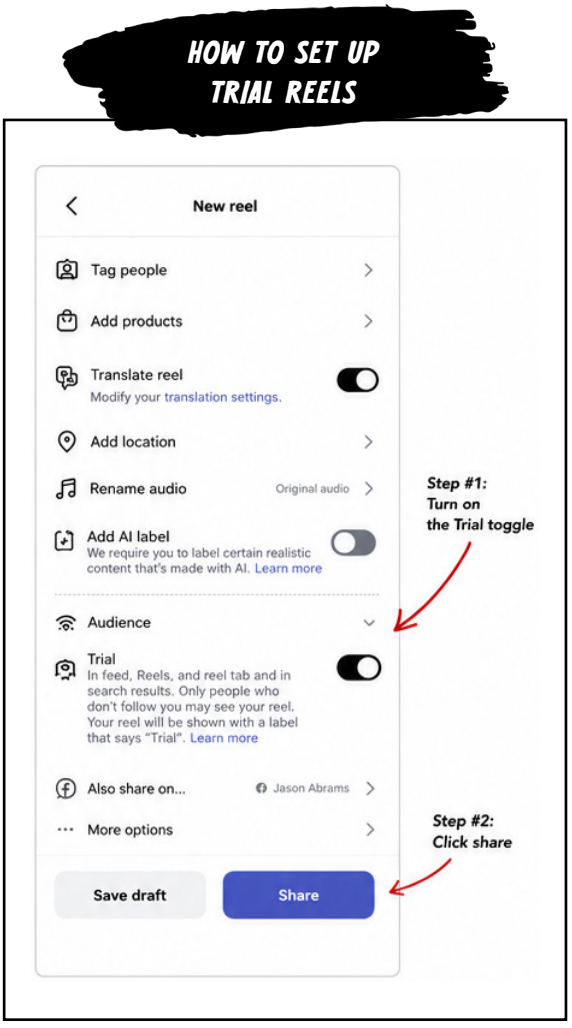

REPEAT
Do more of what works.

Trial reels are especially useful for:

1. Agents who hesitate to post because they're worried about low views or negative feedback.
2. New agents building confidence on video.
3. Testing listing content before sharing it with your sphere.
4. Experimenting with new hooks, formats, or content ideas.
5. Expanding reach beyond your existing audience.

How To Set Up Trial Reels

1. Create a reel and upload to Instagram.
2. Turn on the "Trial Reel" toggle and share.
3. Instagram shares it with non-followers.
4. Review the results and insights.
5. If it performs well, re-publish it as a story or reel to your followers.

STEP 3

OPEN HOUSE MARKETING

Don't host an open house by opening the door and putting 2 signs in the front yard. Promote, stage, capture, and follow up from an open house. Here are a few ways you can keep open house marketing fresh week to week:

1 WEEK 1: KEEP IT SIMPLE

Just Listed and online promotions will probably fuel your open house if you've prepared well and priced right.

2 WEEK 2: ANSWER THE "WHY"

The second open house should answer: "Why would someone come now if they didn't come last week?" Give people who missed it a reason to walk through it this time, and a reason for people who toured last week to come back again.

OFTEN THE EASIEST WAY TO UPGRADE AN OPEN HOUSE IS TO INVITE ANOTHER PROFESSIONAL TO JOIN YOU OR CHOOSE A SPECIAL TIME OF DAY/WEEK.

Try "boosting" the post if you're collaborating with a vendor who has an audience like yours! Here are some fun ways to mix up your open houses:

- ✓ 1. Local GC Available for Questions
- ✓ 2. Interior Designer Consultation
- ✓ 3. Local Landscape Designer
- ✓ 4. Lender/Financing Solution Event
- ✓ 5. Twilight Open House
- ✓ 6. Buyer Q&A Event
- ✓ 7. Giveaways/Raffles

3 WEEK 3: ASK DIFFERENT QUESTIONS

If you have been hosting all the open houses, now might be the right time to ask other agents in your brokerage or your sphere to step in. Maybe there's something about your presentation or available open house days/times that isn't matching with the right buyer.

If your open houses are bringing in a lot of traffic but no one is writing offers, then there's a problem with the price. It's smart to host an open house the weekend after a list price reduction. Here is some price improvement promo language to get interested buyers and their agents a reason to revisit.

- ✓ 1. "New Price Preview"
- ✓ 2. "Second Look Sunday"
- ✓ 3. "Neighborhood Coffee Tour"

2 AGENT REFERRAL MODEL

Jordan Davis' agent referral model includes identifying referral sources, attending conferences, organizing retreats, managing CRM tags, touching the network quarterly, and thanking agents immediately when referrals come in.

Creating an Agent Referral Community

From Jordan Davis

Building strong agent-to-agent relationships is key to expanding your reach and securing consistent referral business! Jordan and her team do anywhere from 50 to 80 referrals a year that equate to roughly $400 million in GCI.

Step 1: Identify Potential Referral Partners

1. Join Agent Networks: Engage with groups, both within your brokerage and outside, to find potential referral partners. Look for agents who share your commitment to customer service and are eager to build long-term relationships.
2. Leverage Relocation Data: Use government relocation maps to identify areas where people frequently move from and connect with agents in those regions. This strategy ensures a steady flow of annual referrals from those areas.
3. Ask for Recommendations: When entering a new market, ask your network, "Who's a great agent in [City] that I should know?" Whether or not you have an immediate referral, this positions you as a proactive, relationship-focused agent.

Step 2: Attend Conferences and Conventions

1. Maximize Networking Opportunities: Attend industry conferences like Keller Williams' Megacamp and Family Reunion. These events offer invaluable opportunities to meet thousands of agents, exchange business cards, and establish new referral partnerships.
2. Follow Up Post-Conference: Add the contacts you meet to your CRM and stay in touch regularly through a Facebook group or email updates. Intentional follow-up ensures these connections turn into long-term referral partners.

Step 3: Organize or Participate in Retreats

1. Build a Tribe: Form small, focused groups of agents who share similar goals and values. These groups, like Jordan's "Boss Babes" or "Women of Wealth," can meet regularly for retreats that combine personal development with business strategy sessions.
2. Plan Memorable Experiences: When organizing retreats, consider locations that are easy to access, set a budget, and create a balanced itinerary that includes both educational and recreational activities. Shared experiences like these forge deep, lasting connections.

Step 4: Manage Your CRM Effectively

1. Capture Essential Details: For every agent you connect with, ensure you have their name, phone number, email, and the city they serve in your CRM. This allows you to quickly reference and utilize them for future referrals.
2. Segment Your Contacts: Tag your agent contacts separately from your general sphere of influence to avoid confusion and ensure targeted communication.

Step 5: Implement a Consistent Touch Campaign and Provide Value

1. Quarterly Check-Ins: Regularly engage with your agent contacts through phone calls, text messages, or social media interactions (in a TCPA-compliant way). Personal touches like asking about their business, health, or family can go a long way in maintaining strong relationships.
2. Birthday Wishes: A simple birthday call or text can keep you top of mind. Consider reaching out the day before to ensure your message stands out.
3. Share Resources: Whenever your company creates valuable content, like a social media template or an open house process, remove your logo and share it with your network. This act of contribution fosters goodwill and reciprocity.
4. Stay Top of Mind: Send periodic updates about your local market to remind your referral partners of the area you serve and your expertise.

Step 6: Acknowledge Referrals Immediately

1. Send a Thank You Gift: As soon as you receive a referral, send a thank you gift—not when the deal closes. This reinforces positive behavior and strengthens your relationship. Consider gifts that carry your branding for added impact.
2. Keep the Referring Agent Informed: Set up an automated plan in your CRM to regularly update the referring agent on the status of the referral. Consistent communication helps build trust and ensures that the referring agent feels valued.

4 LISTING PENDING & CLOSED PROMOTIONS

ANOTHER CONGRATULATIONS IS IN ORDER!

You've gotten your property under contract. Your listing marketing worked!

Everything you've done up to this moment — preparation, pricing, communication, marketing, open houses, negotiations, and problem-solving — has now turned into something incredibly valuable: a result.

Results are what future sellers care about. Sellers don't hire you because of your flyer design or your Instagram profile. Sellers hire you because they believe you can help them achieve a result.

! Don't lose steam on your marketing efforts until the ink has dried on the closing documents.

Here's where this playbook is going to switch gears a little bit. We're still marketing your listing but all of these materials can be re-purposed into marketing your services at the next appointment.

STEP 1 UPDATE ALL MARKETING TO DATE

1 PROMOTE THE PENDING LISTING

Pending listings matter because buyer demand rarely disappears the moment an offer is signed. A pending listing gives you a reason to re-engage buyers that missed out, talk to neighbors again, and start conversations with future sellers.

Here is also when you can really cherry-pick and choose what marketing to do. In the very least, though, update your audiences in all the ways you first notified them.

On your socials, websites, newsletters, via post cards, etc., promote:

1. Under Contract
2. Backup Offers Welcome (if appropriate)
3. Buyer Demand Remains
4. We Still Have Buyers Looking in This Area
5. Thinking About Selling Nearby?

©2026 Keller Williams Realty, LLC

2 MARKET THE SOLD LISTING

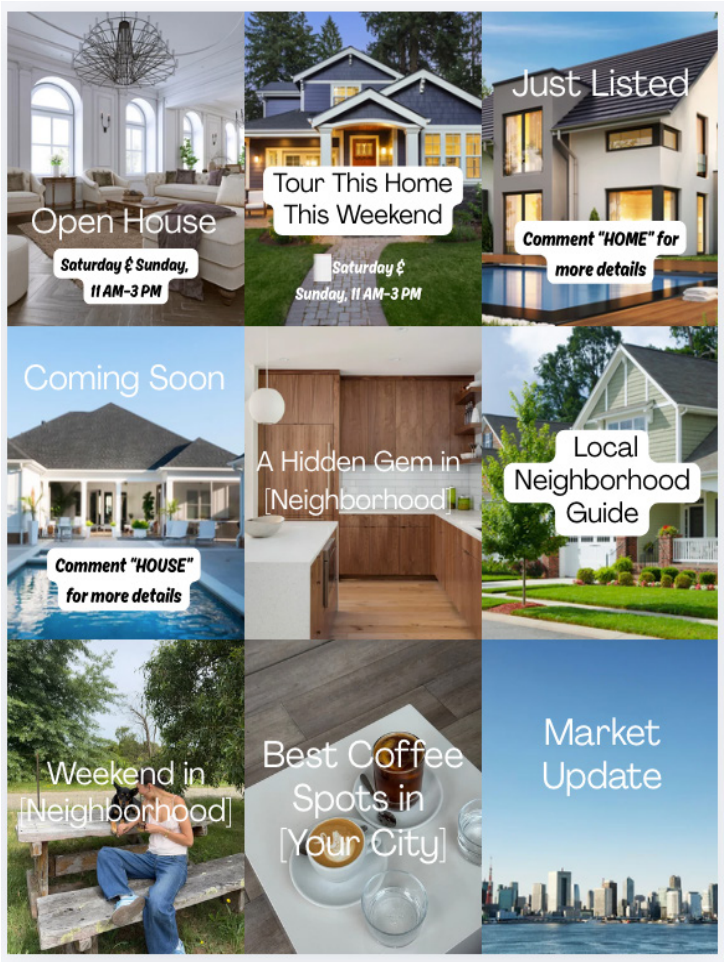

Use the milestone to tell the story behind the sale so it doesn't feel like just another update they could have read online. Talk about the preparation, the marketing strategy, the response from buyers, and the lessons learned along the way.

SHARE THE MILESTONE AS:

1. A reel announcing the closing.
2. A carousel highlighting demand, activity, or seller success.
3. Just Sold postcards.
4. Neighbor door knocking and/or update.
5. Update the listing website(s).

Pro Tip

On social media, create a consistent visual style across your content by using the same fonts, colors, and branding elements for everything. And save all Sold content to a Sold Highlight on your profile. Over time, it becomes a visual record of activity, demand, and results.

1 BUSINESS REVIEW MODEL

Toni and David Zarghami have a proven model for business reviews. Review requests are built directly into their closing process, they respond quickly, and they consistently reinforce the habit of collecting feedback. Over time, those small actions compound into hundreds of reviews and enormous credibility.

Click here or scan to see this model

Become #1 on Google: Reviews & GLS Made Simple

From Toni & David Zarghami

Toni and David Zarghami, partners in life and business, lead The Zarghami Group, a $160 million enterprise in Sarasota, Florida. What began as a two-person database has grown into a scalable system powered by Google reviews. Their nearly 950 five-star ratings on their Google Business Profile establish fast online credibility and fuel the trust that drives consistent closings.

Step 1: Set up your Google Business Profile (GBP) account.

1. Create a website with a clear value proposition, call to action, and message about who you are and what you stand for.
2. Connect your website to a GBP. Add hours of operation, professional photos, and physical location. David says, "Use your office or broker's office location – don't use your home address!"

Step 2: Register for Google's Local Services Ads (GLS).

This process confirms that you're a real, licensed business by checking your credentials and verifying your phone number. Once approved, your profile can display the Google Screened or Google Guaranteed badge, which builds instant trust with prospects.

Step 3: Start the review engine!

1. Build a consistent review strategy. Create a TCPA-compliant multimedia campaign that will get your GBP about the same number of reviews each week. The Zarghami Group's marketing strategy gets between two and five reviews each week.
2. Buy a short review domain (like zgfeedback.com) and forward your GBP Review Form link to the new domain.
3. Practice your conversation framework. You shouldn't be embarrassed! Toni says, "Hey, would you mind sharing your experience of working with me? It means a lot personally. And we share reviews at our weekly team meetings."
4. Text the review link to your client. Even if they don't want to type any words, just submitting stars counts towards your total.
5. Respond to reviews within 24 hours on the platform. David even takes a screenshot of reviews and texts it to the client to say thank you.

How do I find my GBP Review Form link?

1. Go to your business profile.
2. Click on the button to "leave a review."
3. The webpage with the five blank stars and a form field to complete a review is your GBP Review Form link.

4 REVIEW MYTHS BUSTED!

MYTH #1: Reviews are for strangers. My business is built on SOI.
TRUTH #1: Most people in your sphere want to tell others about your business! Let them give you the gift of a great review.

MYTH #2: It's going to take too long to get reviews that matter.
TRUTH #2: If you stay consistent the review count will grow and your client base will grow along with it!
It took Toni and David 4-5 years to get over 900 reviews, but the benefits of those reviews come as soon as the reviews do.

MYTH #3: I'm scared of a bad review. I'd rather not take the risk.
TRUTH #3: A bad review is an opportunity.
Toni and David say a bad review (or two or three!) is great because it shows you are real. It also gives you an opportunity to publicly respond. Turn the negatives into positives with professional responses, timely phone calls, and action.

MYTH #4: Wealthy people don't look at reviews.
TRUTH #4: Everyone looks at reviews.
David says their data proves it. The Zarghami Group has sourced many luxury clients from the group's reviews.

HOW AI CAN HELP YOU MARKET PENDING & CLOSED LISTINGS

1. Write Pending and Just Sold announcements for socials, websites, newsletters, and postcards using the 5 angles.
2. Draft a follow-up message to buyers who toured but missed out, letting them know similar homes are still coming up.
3. Draft a "Thinking about selling nearby?" message to neighbors that uses this sale as proof of demand in their area.
4. Turn your rough notes on the sale into the story behind it — the prep, the marketing, the buyer response, and what made it work.
5. Write a closing-announcement reel outline and a carousel that highlights demand, activity, or seller success.
6. Write Just Sold postcard wording and a short, natural talking framework for door-knocking neighbors after the sale.
7. Turn everything from this sale into results talking points and a mini case study you can reuse at your next listing appointment.

WHAT AI SHOULDN'T DO:

1. Share sale prices, buyer/seller details, transaction info, or images that violate seller permission or MLS rules.
2. Fabricate buyer demand or invent results.
3. Inflate results or misrepresent the strategy that actually produced the outcome.

See the AI prompt library at the end of this Playbook for more detail.

Here's the point.

When the temptation to avoid the work of maxing out listing marketing hits you, ignore it.

The highest-performing agents don't rely on one great social media post, one open house, and one flyer to sell their listings. Elite agents and teams build a repeatable marketing strategy that reduces uncertainty for the seller, helps buyers understand value quickly, and creates momentum for the listing at every stage of the sales process.

Plus, great listing marketing advertises the product you're selling and the services you offer all at the same time:

GREAT LISTING MARKETING WORKS OVERTIME FOR YOU.

PROFESSIONAL PHOTOS
Help sell the home + strengthen perception of results.

OPEN HOUSES
Help sell the home + create new contacts.

SOCIAL MEDIA CONTENT
Helps market the property + show future clients how you work + reinforce trust with your SOI.

REVIEWS
Celebrate closings + prove your marketing strategy delivers results.

> Yes, every listing you market is different so all your listing marketing will look and include different materials. But when you take the time to build a process that works regardless of the property type, price point, or market conditions, you'll spend less time inventing new ideas and more time creating consistent results.

A PLAN CREATES CONSISTENCY. CONSISTENCY CREATES RESULTS.

Get Started!

Now that you understand the “why” and you have your listing marketing model ready, it’s time to start assigning tools and set up your tech stack.

You’re going to live in these design, editing, and publishing tools for every listing you market and advertise. It’s worth it to learn the whole tool at one time, so you can progressively gain speed, assign/teach it, and scale.

You don't need every tool on this list to run a strong listing. Most real estate agents can build a complete tech stack with Canva Pro, Command®, KW Google Workspace, Zillow Preview℠, and an AI tool. Add specialty tools (virtual staging, 3D, drone, scheduling apps, event platforms) as your listings demand them.

Pick what fits your business, learn it well, and build from there.

TOOLS YOU ALREADY HAVE WITH KW

1. CANVA PRO
   for nearly every visual asset in this playbook: pre-appointment and pre-list materials, seller timelines, marketing checklists, sample seller reports, listing flyers, QR code generator, story templates, open house invitations, before-and-after social media graphics, and more.*

2. COMMAND®
   for storing client records, tagging your sphere, triggering SmartPlans by listing phase, sending seller reports, running pre-market email blasts, and more.

3. GOOGLE DRIVE
   (through your KW Google Workspace email) to organize documents, disclosures, photos, floor plans, vendor bids, staging notes, forms, and more.

4. ZILLOW PREVIEW℠
   (where available through participating Market Centers) for early public exposure on Zillow, Trulia, and KW.com before MLS launch.

* Marketing materials available through Canva are provided as customizable templates that may need to be modified to comply with state and local laws, MLS rules and regulations, and your Market Center's policies. Contact your broker to ensure your compliance.

PHOTOGRAPHY, VIDEO, AND SOCIALS TOOLS

1. MATTERPORT OR CUBICASA
for 3D tours and floor plans when the property benefits from spatial clarity.

2. BOXBROWNIE, AI HOMEDESIGN, or similar virtual staging tool when physical staging isn't realistic.

3. META EDITS
for short videos built intuitively for Instagram, Facebook, and WhatsApp. You can also export and post to TikTok, YouTube Shorts, etc.

4. CAPCUT
for video editing, open house teasers, neighborhood walkthroughs, kitchen and backyard highlight clips, price improvement promos.

5. LOOM, BOMBBOMB, SENDSPARK, or a simple selfie-style video for pre-list appointment confirmation videos and personalized seller updates.

6. META BUSINESS SUITE, LATER, OR METRICOOL
for scheduling a full week of social posts and stories in one sitting instead of posting live every day.

7. ASANA OR MONDAY.COM
for organizing your content, tracking listing marketing tasks, and keeping launch timelines on schedule.

LISTING EXPOSURE AND ANALYTICS

1. ZILLOW PREVIEW℠, ZILLOW WORKSPACE
(where available through participating Market Centers) for early public exposure on Zillow, Trulia, and KW.com before MLS launch.

2. SHOWINGTIME
(or your local MLS equivalent) for scheduling showings and collecting buyer-agent feedback you can summarize for the seller.

OPEN HOUSE AND LEAD CAPTURE

1. LONE WOLF SPACIO
or a similar digital open house sign-in app for capturing buyer contact information.

2. EVENTBRITE, FACEBOOK EVENTS, OR PARTIFUL
when you're hosting a themed open house, buyer Q&A, vendor event, or other ticketed gathering and want an RSVP list.

LISTING MARKETING AUDIT

You're here because you have a listing marketing process. Maybe it works pretty well. Maybe it works most of the time. Or maybe you know there are parts of your system that could be stronger, but you're not sure where to start.

THE THING ABOUT LISTING MARKETING is that most listings don't struggle because of one giant mistake. They struggle because a small weakness early in the process compounds throughout the entire marketing cycle.

- Weak preparation → weak photos.
- Weak photos → low interest.
- Low interest → fewer showings.
- Fewer showings → less feedback.
- Less feedback → fewer offers & poorer edits.
- Fewer offers → stressed sellers & agents.

Use this audit to identify where your listing marketing machine may be breaking down and then jump back into the playbook section that addresses that specific issue.

AI PROMPT LIBRARY

Gang, we know that AI is ever changing. Maybe you're reading this in 2028 and we're past prompting your AI already. But today, in 2026, the average real estate agent is using the free tier of their Large Language Model (LLM) to get newsletter stuff done. In order to get the best outputs in the free tiers (when you usually only have a couple prompts before you're locked out), you need to have super solid prompts.

NO MATTER HOW YOU USE AI, don't forget to edit for accuracy and voice. As a human, there's nothing sadder than watching your favorite content creator turn into AI slop. Use your knowledge to write things your people will care about from the perspective they really want – yours.

IN ADDITION TO THIS PROMPT LIBRARY, there's a "How AI can help…" segment at the end of most sections in this Playbook with ideas where AI can be used!

UNIVERSAL RULES FOR AI USE

Never paste client names, addresses, phone numbers, emails, or financial details into a public AI tool.

Edit placeholders: [neighborhood], [3BR/2BA], [seller goal], [timeline].

Always review, verify, edit, and personalize output before using.

AI gives structure but you give personality, so add your voice.

Adhere to your local rules, regulations, and laws.

If you don't know what these universal rules mean, read our AI Playbook: LLMs in Connect first.

COPY & PASTE THESE PROMPTS INTO ANY LLM

1. Prompts to Help You Prepare the Marketing Materials

1. Property Description (3 Versions)

"Write 3 versions of a property description for a [3BR/2BA] home in [neighborhood], priced at [range], featuring [3-5 key features]. Version 1: lifestyle-focused, 150 words for the property webpage. Version 2: feature-driven, 75 words for the flyer front. Version 3: story-led, 120 words. Avoid fair-housing-sensitive language and words like 'stunning,' 'must-see,' and 'won't last.'"

2. Back-of-Flyer Highlights

"Turn these property notes into skimmable flyer highlights: [paste notes on upgrades, replacements, outdoor features, floor plan details]. Group into 3-4 short labeled sections with 2-4 bullet points each. Keep each bullet under 10 words. Highlights only — no long paragraphs."

3. Reusable Neighborhood Guide

"Create a 1-page neighborhood guide for [neighborhood] in [city] that I can reuse for future listings here. Cover: top restaurants and coffee shops, parks and trails, shopping, commute times to [major employers/downtown], and community events. Tone: informed local, not tourist board. Leave a [placeholder] anywhere I need to verify a fact."

4. Just Listed Email / Newsletter Announcement

"Draft a Just Listed email announcement for a [3BR/2BA] home in [neighborhood] at [price band]. Build it around the photos — heavy visual layout, minimal text. Include: a one-line hook, 3-4 standout features, an open house line [day/time placeholder], and one clear CTA to view the listing. Under 150 words so I don't fatigue my subscribers."

5. Social Teaser Posts & Story Ideas

"Give me 7 teaser post and Story ideas to introduce a new listing in [neighborhood] over several days without dumping every photo on day one. Mix: favorite room, a design detail, before-and-after staging, a neighborhood feature, a countdown to launch, and an open house reminder. One line each, plus a suggested visual."

6. Behind-the-Scenes Hooks & Posting Plan

"I have these behind-the-scenes clips from prepping a listing: [paste list — staging, vendor walkthrough, paint selections, seller favorite features, photographer day]. Write a hook and a caption for each, then organize them into a posting plan from now through launch day. Note the best format (Reel, Short, or Story) for each."

7. Self-Hosted Property Video Outline

"Outline a 60-90 second walkthrough for a property video I'll host myself, HGTV-style, for a [3BR/2BA] home in [neighborhood] featuring [standout features]. Give me a room-by-room flow with talking points for each, an opening hook, and a closing CTA. Then write an SEO- and GEO-friendly YouTube title and description using the property address and [city/neighborhood]."

8. Open House Invitation & Postcard

"Write open house invitation and postcard wording for a listing at [address placeholder] in [neighborhood]. Include: date, time, location, one-line reason to attend, my contact info [placeholder], and a QR/RSVP CTA. Give me a short version for a postcard and a slightly longer version for a social invite."

9. META Ad Variations

"Write 3 META ad variations for a [3BR/2BA] listing in [neighborhood] at [price band], each pointing to [listing website placeholder]. Vary the headline, hook, and angle. Each needs a clear CTA and next step. Keep primary text under 125 characters. Avoid fair-housing-sensitive targeting language."

10. Specialty Listing Positioning

"Help me position a [specialty type: luxury / land / senior / probate / tenant-occupied] listing in [neighborhood]. Give me: 3 positioning angles for the right buyer, a 150-word description written for that audience, and 3 questions this buyer type will likely ask. Tone: aspirational but grounded. Respectful, function-focused language — no clinical or outdated terms."

2. Prompts to Help You Create Urgency with Pre-Market Marketing

1. Zillow Workspace Seller Update

"Using these Zillow Workspace metrics — [paste views/saves/shares/tour requests] — draft a calm, data-based seller update before MLS go-live. Include: what the early numbers tell us, how that compares to what's typical, any suggested adjustments, and the go-live plan. Don't add any numbers I didn't give you."

2. SOI Pre-Market Notice (2 Versions)

"Write 2 versions of a warm pre-market notice about a coming-soon listing in [neighborhood] for my sphere. Version 1: a personal newsletter blurb. Version 2: a short dedicated listing email. Each under 120 words. Lead with helpfulness, not the sale, and end with a soft 'reply if you or someone you know is looking' line."

3. MOFIR Calls-to-Action & Auto-Responders

"Write comment-to-trigger calls-to-action for a pre-market listing in [neighborhood], plus the matching auto-responder for each. Triggers: DETAILS (sends listing info + link), OPEN (sends open house day/time), NEIGHBORHOOD (sends the neighborhood guide). For each: one natural caption line and a friendly auto-reply under 40 words that delivers the info and adds one soft next step. Compatible with ManyChat or Meta AI."

4. Broker Open Invitation & Feedback Questions

"Draft a broker open invitation for [day/time] at a listing in [neighborhood], [price band]. Include: what makes the home worth touring, refreshment details [placeholder], and a clear RSVP. Tone: peer-to-peer, not promotional. Then give me 5 short feedback questions to ask attending agents about price, condition, and buyer fit."

3. Prompts to Help You Market the Property Everywhere

1. Four-Category Post Ideas

"Generate post ideas for a listing in [neighborhood] across all four categories: Property (what makes this home unique?), Lifestyle (what makes this location desirable?), Educational (what should buyers know about the neighborhood, price point, floor plan, or market?), and Invitation (how can buyers experience it in person?). Give me 3 ideas per category, one line each."

2. Property Post + Matching Neighborhood Post

"For this property feature — [paste feature] — write one property-focused post and one matching neighborhood-focused post about the location around it. Buyers often choose the location first, so make the neighborhood post stand on its own. 80-120 words each, conversational, each ending in a soft CTA."

3. Feedback-to-Content Converter

"Turn these open house pictures, video notes, and tour feedback into new content: [paste feedback themes]. Give me 5 post ideas and hooks built from them — for example 'the feature people keep asking about' or 'what buyers almost miss about this home.' Don't reveal any visitor identities. One hook + one-line description each."

4. Trial Reel Hooks

"Write 5 Reel hooks for a listing in [neighborhood] featuring [standout feature], each strong enough to test as a Trial Reel with non-followers first. Each hook is the first 3 seconds of voiceover. Mix: question hook, contrarian hook, story hook, problem-solution hook, and curiosity hook."

5. Price Improvement Promos

"Write price improvement promos for a listing in [neighborhood] repositioning from [old price] to [new price] that give buyers and their agents a reason to revisit. Include: 3 social post versions (80-120 words, avoid 'price reduced' — use 'new opportunity,' 'repositioned,' or 'new price point' framing) and a 'Second Look Sunday' open house invitation with 3 reasons to come back."

4. Prompts to Help You Market Pending & Closed Listing

1. Pending & Just Sold Announcements (5 Angles)

"Write announcements for a listing in [neighborhood] that just went [pending/sold], for socials, websites, newsletters, and postcards. Cover the 5 angles: Under Contract, Backup Offers Welcome (if appropriate), Buyer Demand Remains, We Still Have Buyers Looking in This Area, and Thinking About Selling Nearby? Give me one short version of each angle I can mix and match. Don't share price unless I confirm the seller approved it."

©2026 Keller Williams Realty, LLC

2. Missed-Out Buyer Follow-Up

"Write a follow-up message to buyers who toured a now-pending listing in [neighborhood] but missed out. Acknowledge they liked it, let them know similar homes are still coming up, and offer to set up a custom search or alert. Under 100 words, warm, no pressure. TCPA-compliant."

3. Neighbor 'Thinking About Selling?' Message

"Write a message to neighbors near a just-sold listing in [neighborhood] that uses this sale as proof of demand in their area. Frame it around continued buyer interest, then add a soft 'thinking about selling nearby?' question. Give me a social/newsletter version and a postcard version. Direct-mail compliant."

4. Story Behind the Sale

"Turn these rough notes into the story behind a sale in [neighborhood]: [paste notes on prep, pricing, marketing, buyer response]. Write it as a short narrative (150-200 words) covering the preparation, the marketing strategy, the response from buyers, and what made it work. No client names or private details."

5. Closing Reel & Carousel

"From this sale story — [paste] — write a closing-announcement Reel outline (hook + 4-5 beats + CTA) and a 5-slide carousel that highlights demand, activity, or seller success. One caption per slide. Keep any numbers to what I've confirmed I can share."

6. Just Sold Postcard & Door-Knocking Framework

Write Just Sold postcard wording for neighbors near a listing in [neighborhood] — bold result headline on front, short demand-and-track-record message on back with a 'thinking about selling?' CTA. Then give me a short, natural talking framework for door-knocking those same neighbors after the sale. Keep the door-knock opener under 45 seconds."

7. Results Talking Points & Mini Case Study

"Turn everything from this sale — [paste prep, strategy, timeline, outcome] — into two things I can reuse at my next listing appointment: (1) 5 results talking points that show how my marketing produced the outcome, and (2) a one-page mini case study with a short intro, the strategy, and the result. No confidential details or unapproved numbers."

ZILLOW PREVIEW℠ FAQ

WHAT IS ZILLOW PREVIEW℠?

Zillow Preview℠ is an MLS-compliant, pre-marketing listing program. On Zillow Preview℠, you have access to a set of tools that can build stronger marketing plans for your sellers, combining greater early visibility, flexible pre-market strategy, and real engagement insights. During the pre-market period, Zillow Preview℠ gives agents earlier exposure for their listings, reaching the millions of buyers who start their search on Zillow.

BENEFITS OF PRE-MARKETING WITH ZILLOW PREVIEW℠ INCLUDE:

1. Reaching buyers earlier in their search process.
2. Building awareness before MLS launch.
3. Generating views, saves, shares, and buyer inquiries before day one.
4. Testing pricing and positioning based on real buyer engagement.
5. Creating a pipeline of interested buyers who can schedule tours once the listing becomes active.
6. Giving sellers more visibility into buyer interest before launch.
7. Creating a stronger launch day because awareness already exists.

Zillow reports that Preview listings generate engagement signals such as views, saves, and shares that agents can monitor in Zillow Workspace. These early demand signals can help agents and sellers better understand how buyers are responding and make informed adjustments before the listing becomes active.

SELLERS WANT:

1. More transparency.
2. More flexibility in listing strategy.
3. More control over how their home enters the market.

Keller Williams and Zillow have both emphasized that sellers should have the opportunity to reach the widest possible audience if they choose to do so. By making listings visible on Zillow, Trulia, and KW.com before MLS activation, Zillow Preview℠ helps expose properties to millions of active home shoppers earlier in the marketing cycle.

HOW DOES ZILLOW PREVIEW℠ WORK?

1. Zillow Preview℠ listings receive elevated placement in Zillow search results and saved-home alerts, helping more buyers discover the home earlier in the listing process.
   a. You can edit details and the price of your listing in Zillow Workspace while it's listed on Zillow Preview℠.
   b. Once the listing is input into an active MLS, you'll make updates through the MLS like normal and the Zillow Preview℠ listing will automatically become a regular Zillow listing.

2. Offers and in-person tours during the Zillow Preview℠ period depends on the seller's strategy and local MLS requirements.
   a. Consumers have the choice to connect with the listing agent or with a local buyer's agent. When a buyer reaches out to the listing agent directly through Zillow, the connections are free for the listing agent.
   b. With Zillow Preview℠, buyers can request tours in advance of the listing's "go-live" date.

3. Revenue participation is available for qualified leads.
   a. If a qualified Zillow Preview℠ lead* results in a closed transaction through Zillow's Preferred agent partner network, the listing agent may receive a payment equal to 10% of the buyer transaction Gross Commission Income (GCI).
   *Has to be a new lead and closed within 90 days of being generated.

Market Centers may participate in Zillow Preview℠ for free. For KW-affiliated agents whose Market Centers participate, there is no subscription, per-listing fee, or Zillow referral fee for direct contact leads.

BUSINESS MODEL & LEAD FLOW

Performance-Based Upside

If a buyer first connects with you or a Zillow Preferred agent partner through your Preview listing and later closes a transaction on any home within 90 days of becoming a new lead:

AGENT PAYMENT

The listing agent may receive a payment equal to 10% of the buyer transaction Gross Commission Income (GCI).

TRANSPARENCY

No added cost for buyers or sellers; commissions remain negotiable.

Cost to agents

No subscription, per-listing, or Zillow referral fee for direct contact leads.

STEP 2  CREATE YOUR FIRST ZILLOW PREVIEW℠ LISTING

Zillow Preview℠ listings require:

1. ✓ Address and property type.
2. ✓ Price.
3. ✓ At least one listing photo.
4. ✓ Number of beds/baths/sqft.
5. Public remarks.
6. ✓ Year built.
7. ✓ Expected on market date.
8. ✓ Agent license and brokerage information.

STEP 3  MANAGE LISTINGS

1. After publishing your Zillow Preview℠ listing, you will manage the listing and monitor insights inside Zillow Workspace. Make edits to your Zillow Preview℠ listing in Zillow Workspace.
2. If your MLS has Coming Soon status: Once the Coming Soon listing reaches Zillow from the MLS, Zillow will display the MLS Coming Soon listing instead of the Preview Listing. At that point, Zillow Preview℠ benefits and features no longer apply.
3. When the listing goes live on your MLS, the Zillow Preview℠ listing will automatically transform into a regular syndicated Zillow listing. Make edits to your active listing in your MLS like normal.
